LBJ SEEKS ECONOMIC NOOSE FOR CUBA

Inquiring Reporter

Recently the Order of Elks sponsored "National Freedom Week." Pupils in the fifth and sixth grades of Salem Public Schools discussed and wrote their views on the subject of freedom. Here are eight answers given by sixth graders when they were asked: "What Does Freedom Mean to You?"

Jack Shoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Shoff of 215 W. 12th St., Buckeye School: "It means I can worship God in the way I choose. I can have a voice in the government when I become of age. I can read any kind of literature without being told what I have to read. I do not have to live in constant fear."

Mary Lee Purrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Purrington of 225 Rose Ave., 4th St. School: "Freedom means that you have the right to earn your own living instead of giving all or most of your profits to the government. It also means that you can speak your opinions and thoughts."

Durwood Rogowsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Rogowsky of MC 1, Prospect St. School: "It means that I can go out for a sport or I can go down to the farm. I can earn money, go to school and learn to read, write, learn about figures, science, other countries and how to speak."

Dianne Ehrhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ehrhart of 353 E. 4th St., 4th St. School: "Freedom is one thing I would never give up. I think freedom was a great gift from God. Some people in other countries think we have everything but we don't. We had to fight for our freedom the same as other countries will."

Judy Albright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Albright of 1102 E. 9th St., McKinley School: "To be free means to be able to come out of my house without being shot, to be able to go to the church I please and to abide by the laws of the country."

Danny Zerbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Zerbs, Jr. of 858 N. Union Ave., McKinley School: "Freedom is the reason the Pilgrims came, the reason many men died and the reason many still do. It means a free life, education, the right to worship as we please, but most of all, it means hope for a better life."

Nora Baddeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Baddeley of 375 W. Pershing St., 4th St. School: "If I want to buy something, I am allowed to because there is no one to tell me that I cannot buy something. No group can push another group around. A person can go to any country he wants to."

Larry Hinchliffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hinchliffe of 830 Franklin St., Reilly School: "Freedom is a wonderful treasure the United States has. We should be very grateful to the many men and women who died to make this country free."

Warning On Cyprus Issued By Soviet Union

Khrushchev Terms NATO Peace Force "Armed Invasion"

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Soviet Union has injected itself directly into the Cyprus crisis by warning the United States and Britain to keep their hands off the strife-torn island. While his ambassador called on President Archbishop Makarios in Nicosia, Soviet Premier Khrushchev took up the Cyprus issue in Moscow Friday, describing a proposed North Atlantic Treaty Organization peace force as "an armed invasion."

In identical notes to leaders of the United States, Britain, France, Greece and Turkey, Khrushchev accused some members of the Atlantic alliance of attempting to prevent a solution by the U.N. Security Council. Khrushchev termed the proposed 10,000-man temporary peace keeping force a "crude encroachment on the sovereignty, independence and freedom of the Republic of Cyprus, an attempt to place this small neutral state under the military control of NATO."

He said the Soviet Union could not remain indifferent to developments so close to its southern borders. Soviet Ambassador Pavel Yermoshin delivered another Khrushchev message to Makarios, but a spokesman for the Greek

President Wants Allies To Cease Trade With Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is appealing to Allied governments to join in tightening an economic noose around Cuba following President Johnson's decision to separate the Guantanamo naval base completely from the Cuban economy and water supply. Johnson in effect told Cuba to keep its water. The presidential decision was announced by the State Department Friday night after a day-long series of conferences on how the United States should react to Prime Minister Fidel Castro's action Thursday in cutting the fresh water supply to the naval base. At the same time a White House statement warned of the dangers of "further provocations by Castro" and declared that the prospects "should be carefully weighed by all nations."

To Discuss Matter With OAS, NATO

It added that "these matters" will be discussed with other Western Hemisphere nations in the Organization of American States and with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies. Shortly before the White House announcement that Guantanamo would be made self-sufficient in water supplies, Secretary of State Dean Rusk pictured Castro as probably undertaking a concerted campaign to force the United States to abandon the big naval base on Cuba's eastern end.

"The basic fact is," Rusk told a news conference, "that we are in Guantanamo and will remain there for the foreseeable future."

Later Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos issued a statement on Havana radio to, he said, rebut Rusk's declaration that "we are making a premeditated campaign to expel the United States from Guantanamo."

"We will claim the base in the moment we consider convenient and will use the ways of international organizations that we will consider convenient for our claim," said Dorticos.

Base To Be Made Self-Sufficient

Johnson ordered the Defense Department to make Guantanamo self-sufficient. With his order, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, the statement said, issued instructions to:

"Assure the base control over its own water supply both by conversion of sea water to fresh water and by the transportation of water by ship. "Reduce the employment of Cuban personnel who are subject to the control of the Cuban government and whose wages contribute to its foreign exchange."

Asked if the Cuban water would be used if Castro turned it back on, a Defense Department spokesman said, "No. The new instruction means that we do not anticipate having to use water again from that source."

Administration officials said the President and his advisers believe the decision on the American response is appropriate to the challenge posed by Castro in closing the pipeline to the base.

Despite initial anger at Castro's move the President's advisers now consider it a harassment rather than a serious

Final Action Due Feb. 19-20 On Tax Cut Bill

Senate Okays Plan; Benefits May Start Soon After March 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders, spurred on by President Johnson, today fixed Feb. 19 or 20 as the goal for final action on the largest tax cut in U.S. history.

The benefits, including more dollars in take-home pay, would begin about the first of March.

The Senate passed its $11.6-billion version of the legislation Friday, 77 to 21, well ahead of the original Feb. 11 deadline fixed by its leaders.

Even before the final vote, Johnson was conferring with his Capitol Hill lieutenants about speeding up plans for the Senate-House conference to reconcile the differences between the two chambers' versions.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., who heads the Senate delegation, told a reporter it was decided to begin the conference next Monday instead of Feb. 17 as planned earlier.

He said that the conferees could meet only on Monday and Tuesday next week since Republicans will be leaving town for Lincoln Day speeches.

But he said the explanation of what changes the Senate made in the $11.1-billion version passed by the House would be covered in those two days, so that voting can start when the

Vote Probe Set In Ohio County

Irregularities In Townships Noted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said he would ask the Justice Department today to look into alleged election irregularities in Lawrence County's Washington and Decatur townships.

Brown told of his plans Friday night a few hours after the Lawrence County grand jury reported it found no substantiated evidence of fraud in the election last Nov. 5.

"I have the greatest respect for the constituted authority of the courts but I must say that I feel the situation in Lawrence County warrants further investigation."

"I shall now ask the Justice Department to make an investigation in Lawrence County to see if constitutional rights have been infringed upon," Brown said.

Common Pleas Judge Warren Earhart a short time before criticized state officials for starting the probe and added that "an investigation should be made on why state money is spent in this fashion."

It was Earhart who ordered the grand jury probe after Brown conducted two hearings at which witnesses told of alleged wrongdoing that included vote buying and other irregularities.

While the jury said it found no evidence of law violation "that could be substantiated," it did recommend that election workers in Decatur Twp. be replaced for failing to do their work properly.

The panel also recommended "closer scrutiny" of the handling of absentee ballots. Earhart also was critical of the manner in which Brown's office handled the investigation. He said local authorities were bypassed although "capable of handling this type of thing."

The judge said 101 statements were taken in the investigation and that later one of Brown's own investigation admitted that about 90 of them contained hearsay.

No One Hurt In Mishaps On Icy Highways

Icy road conditions were responsible for two traffic accidents early today but no injuries were suffered.

The first mishap occurred at 2 a.m. when a southbound truck driven by Floyd J. Boyce, 46, of McDonald which was stopped at the side of the road on Route 7, two and two-tenths miles north of Route 30 because of slippery road conditions, was struck by an auto driven by Wayne E. Phillips, 19, of Pittsburgh, which was traveling north on Route 7 and went left of center. Only minor damage resulted.

A one-car mishap at 5 a.m. caused moderate damage to an auto driven by Charles J. Vekas, Jr., 26, of Mentor, who lost control of the car while traveling south on Route 30, three and one-half miles south of Route 45, went off the right side of the road and struck a utility pole.

Two cars received extensive damage in a collision at 1:50 p.m. Friday on Route 30, one and one-half miles east of Minerva.

An eastbound car driven by Sylvia Coffey, 34, of RD 2, Minerva, went left of center and struck an auto being driven west on the highway by Wilfred F. Hays, 22, of Minerva.

The Hays vehicle went off the right side of the road and rolled over. Mrs. Coffey was arrested for reckless operation and Hays was arrested for having no operator's license.

A car-truck accident occurred at 11:30 p.m. Friday on Route 14, one and seven-tenths miles east of Salem, when a west-

Announces New Government

Khanh Takes Over Reins In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, South Viet Nam's 36-year-old strong man, announced the formation of a new government today with himself as premier.

Dapper in paratrooper's fatigues, Khanh read the list of Cabinet officers from the steps of his office building and vowed to "bring forth all our strength to repel Communist aggression, to bring security to our people, especially those in the countryside."

Khanh named the popular Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh as chief of state. Minh, leader of the deposed military junta, is expected to have only nominal power.

Minh will live in Saigon's Gia Long Palace, formerly occupied by the late President Ngo Dinh Diem. Minh, who led the coalition of generals that ousted the Diem regime last Nov. 1, was overthrown by Khanh's swift, bloodless coup on Jan. 30.

While a crowd of politicians, diplomats and newsmen listened in a parking lot below, Khanh disclosed his list of three deputy premiers, five ministers and 10 secretaries of state.

Explaining what he called the new government's historic mission to save the country, Khanh said: "Every act aimed at sowing disunity and act of sabotage beneficial to the Communists and neutralists will constitute a crime against the people of the motherland."

On Friday a bomb exploded in a Saigon bar, killing five Viet namese, including a bar girl. Six U.S. servicemen were wounded, none seriously.

The explosion at the Playboy Bar was the worst terrorist act in the capital in more than a year. The night spot is often frequented by Americans. It is near a big hotel for U.S. enlisted men.

'Rights' Battle Reaches Climax

Battle Looms on Fair Employment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House civil-rights fight reaches its climax today with a bipartisan drive to write a fair employment practices provision into the bill.

Southern opponents, who have been overwhelmed by a coalition of Republicans and Northern Democrats on every other section, hope to gain enough support to kill the employment provision.

House leaders want to finish action on the provision and three other minor ones and put the entire bill to a final vote tonight.

But Southerners won assurances no effort would be made to limit debate in order to meet the deadline, thus leaving the possibility that a final vote wouldn't come until Monday.

The controversial provision would create a federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission empowered to investigate complaints of racial discrimination in hiring, firing and promotion practices among businesses and labor unions.

The commission would have to go into court and win its case to get enforcement of its orders.

Standing on its own, such legislation has fared poorly in the House for years. Fair employment practices bills die regularly in committee without ever reaching the floor.

But under the drive for strong civil rights legislation touched off last summer by the widespread demonstrations by Negroes, the House Judiciary Committee included the provision in its 10-part package. Now it is asking the House to keep it in.

Two other sections on which stiff fights were expected turned into easy victories for the coalition.

One, outlawing racial discrimination in places of public accommodation, was approved Wednesday. The other, authorizing a cutoff of federal funds for programs in which discrimination is practiced, was approved Friday night.

Beatles Invade

English Pop Singers Arrive In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Beatles, Britain's rock 'n' rollers with the haystack hairdos, blew up a teen-age storm by arriving here.

At Kennedy Airport Friday, about 3,000 delirious, shrieking, hooky-playing youngsters, many of them carrying Beatles banners, strained against police barricades to welcome the singing, guitar-strumming quartet.

It was mostly girls, girls, girls. "I love them, I love them!" cried one.

"They're so cute!" said another. "Their singing tears me apart and lets out all frustrations," sighed a Brooklyn girl.

Pelted by jelly beans and candy kisses, all loving every bit of it, were Beatles Paul McCartney, 21; George Harrison, 21; Ringo Starr, 23, and John Lennon, 23. Lennon's pretty blonde wife, Cynthia, accompanied the group but stayed well in the background.

The Beatles, their records best sellers for months, were almost an American institution before they got here. Already on sale are Beatles wigs, boots, T-shirts, sweatshirts, toss pillows and scarves. In Britain, 20,000 rag-mop wigs have been sold.

The adulation of the Beatles is reminiscent of the grip Frank Sinatra had on teen-agers some years ago and, more recently, of Elvis Presley.

But when a newsman described them as "four Elvis Presleys" the foursome shouted in unison: "No, no, no!"

The Beatles began their debut in a Liverpool jazz cellar 15 months ago for about $20 a ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — The government announced today the deportation of six University of Ghana faculty members—four of them Americans—for subversive activities.

The announcement of their deportation came after a demonstration by more than 2,000 followers of President Kwame Nkrumah's Convention People's party at the University of Ghana in suburban Legon.

The demonstrators marched through the halls of the university for several hours. There were reports of violence. Government-owned newspapers this week have been protesting Western influence on student minds and criticized those students who did not fully support Ghana's one-party Socialist government.

Mrs. Eugene Courtney, Mrs. Richard Gednetz and Mrs. John Townsend of the home economics committee had charge of the supper.

A cupcake and smoked pillow contest will be held March 16. First and second degrees will be given at the next meeting Feb. 17.

Mrs. Russell Oesch was reported to be a patient at Alliance City Hospital.

NEW YEARS ST. VALENTINE'S LENT WHY LENT? MEMORIAL DAY JULY 4TH LABOR DAY

For hundreds of years the Christian Church has set aside the six weeks before Easter and has designed them "the Lenten season."

The purpose of this special season is to give Christians an opportunity to recall the consequences of sin and the assurance of redemption. It provides Christian churches with an opportunity to tell the unchurched residents of their communities of the central fact of the Christian faith—the death of the Son of God to atone for the sins of the world.

The message of Lent is to Christianity what a spring is to a watch, what a motor is to a car. Take the message of Christ's life and death out of the Christian religion and you have only a worthless shell.

The message of Lent is still the message of Paul: "Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures."

During these weeks thousands of churches throughout the nation are bringing this fundamental Bible fact into sharp focus. If you have not yet found forgiveness for your sins through faith in Christ, we extend a hearty invitation to you to attend our Lenten services.

Finding the Way

It's Time to Junk the Trash

In every city there are signs challenging the careless who litter the highways and scatter trash. It's a worthy campaign. It calls for a parallel campaign, unless we are to turn our cities and countryside into repetitious dullness, devoid of character.

A recent comment of an architect underscores the dilemma: "In the objects soon to be mass-produced for our country's swelling masses, it all collapses into falsity and superficial sensuousness; the triumphal progress of trash begins." It is this deadening trashiness that Jesus confronted as men turned even the Commandments into harsh rigidities, losing their meaning and their purpose.

HE COMMENTED simply, "Ye have heard it said of old time, but I say unto you," and with bold brush strokes put great new dimensions before men. There was nothing uninteresting or dull about such words.

Those men and women in our time who teach, communicate, renew, and call men from contentment with trashiness serve a larger purpose than they might guess.

That person who condemns a child to dullness, causing him to miss the exciting awakening of his own senses and wasting his energies, deserves Jesus' harsh condemnation, "It is better that a millstone be hanged about his neck."

ON THE OTHER HAND, that person who so generates enthusiasm, awakening new imagination and talent, experiences all of the satisfaction of birth.

So C. P. Snow wrote concerning the teaching of science: "The pedantry goes on when there is every chance of rousing a child's enjoyment from stars to motor cars, from atoms to lives of birds."

To cherish the love of the good, the true and the beautiful is doing more than expressing a certain taste; it is creating a hunger for that which is not trash. This is essential if succeeding generations are to remember that the underlying values really exist.

SOMEONE MUST keep the dream alive, and someone must feed the spirit.

A casual look at any littered sidewalk reveals something which has happened to that community. A look at dullness of many of our cities and towns exhibits another kind of "processional of trash."

Ultimately it is what we want in our lives, what we dream about, what ambitions we have for ourselves and for our children.

If we litter our minds, the litter of the streets won't shock us. To pursue peace and truth is to discover that the highway of the mind is kept clean. That's why Jesus could say, "I am the Way."

MY

PRAYER

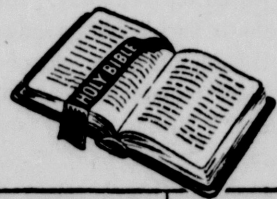

I'll never forget the first time I saw a harp. I was walking by a music store with my mother and it was there in the window, tall and golden. I knew, then and there, that I wanted to be a harpist.

But, my heart sank, for I knew my parents could afford neither the instrument nor the lessons. I started to pray every night to God to send me a harp.

Nothing happened. My small spirit rebelled, and I blurted out to my Sunday School teacher that my prayer hadn't been answered. My teacher was a wonderful woman. She just said, "You've been going about this in the wrong way, Ann. You've been demanding something of God. Don't you think it would be better if you asked Him?"

Her quiet words made an impression. The tenor of my prayers changed. And the teachings of the Church meant more to me than ever.

Well — in time I did become a harpist. Recently, I played my first concert. And as the great, golden instrument came to life beneath my fingers I hoped that the angels, too, were smiling.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ohioans Want to Know

Whether President Johnson's comments last December about frugality in government had anything to do with year-end cuts in Ohio's Bureau of Unemployment Compensation budget may determine the outcome to current efforts to have the cuts eliminated.

Gov. Rhodes has asked the President to help Ohio recover the $1 million subtracted from Ohio's $15½ million as of last Dec. 31, following a number of White House statements about the necessity of saving federal funds.

The impact of this blow was intensified by the fact seven months of the fiscal year were gone, which meant the missing million had to be made up in the remaining five months. It amounted to nearly a 22 per cent cut in staff for the balance of the fiscal year, compared with the staff allowed in 1963.

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember the cut has nothing to do with benefits paid to Ohio unemployed, only to money to BUC employees. This aspect may be the reason U.S. Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Flushing, representing our 18th Ohio District, has got into a hassle with Willard F. Dudley, Ohio BUC administrator. Perhaps Rep. Hays sees a chance to get in a dirty dig while Mr. Dudley is preoccupied with other matters.

Rep. Hays apparently is nursing a peeve about BUC administration in his district. "It is my view that your funds should be reduced even more so that you can get rid of some of those arrogant know-it-alls whose main mission in life is to deny unemployment compensation, no matter," is Hays' summation of the issue.

Knowing how Wayne Hays sometimes pops off first and thinks afterward, Ohioans are not minded to take him seriously in this matter.

Nor are they inclined to take too seriously BUC administrator Dudley's alarm over losing a few hundred employees out of several thousand.

WHAT THEY seriously want to know from the Johnson administration via Labor Secretary Wirtz is whether the Ohio BUC cuts are part of a national project in frugality, like their own governor's austerity program for Ohio.

If so, it would be pretty hard for Gov. Rhodes to knock a federal move to shuck off a few hundred BUC employees in Ohio.

If the true motive is not economy but a form of selective political chastisement, Ohio has every good reason to wonder how a state which sends its money to Washington can ever hope to get a fair share of it back for the purpose it is supposed to cover.

There are two sides to every question and the wrong one is always the other fellow's.

A real pleasant smile goes a long way fast, but it's still easy to catch it.

Annexation

City Council's adoption of legislation this week which annexed some 100 acres just east of the city was a logical move.

It brings into the city a Perry Township tract which is a growing business and residential area and is, perhaps, just one of several annexations which could come in the years which lie immediately ahead.

A special committee on annexation functioned during the last term of City Council but unfortunately this committee was not reappointed. We believe that the existence of such a committee would serve a useful purpose in being helpful generally to the residents of certain neighborhoods who are known to favor becoming an integral part of the municipal corporation.

The growing district about Salem ought to become part of the city. In fact, health authorities might be able to force it because of the serious septic tank problem in the suburban area. Health laws are broken daily because sewer lines are non-existent.

From a long-range view, Salem's growth is stymied unless proper annexation can go forward.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

You probably saw the presidential campaign platform written by Clare Boothe Luce, former Republican congresswoman, ambassador to Italy and playwright. She was supposed to be joking, but do you think she really was? Much truth is often spoken in jest, you know.

You were holding forth awhile ago about how nobody should write anything for publication or say anything publicly unless he knows what he is talking about. If you really mean that, it would silence the entire world. Come to think of it, maybe this is what you want.

As the campaign progresses, or retrogresses, your platform beliefs will become apparent and, just to keep you from wondering too much about mine, this letter will outline a few.

What we both have to keep in mind is that neither of us is Clare Boothe Luce. Anybody will tell you that, especially Mr. Luce.

FOR INSTANCE, Mrs. Luce said, "I am for lifting everyone off the social bottom. In fact, I am for doing away with the social bottom altogether."

My plan is better than hers on that issue. I not only am for doing away with the bottom but with the top. The big advantage of my plan is that it would leave everybody in the middle, which is where they usually are anyhow.

Her reference to the "social bottom" may not have meant the same as the economic bottom, but it smacks of recent talk of eliminating poverty.

All this talk of eliminating poverty is reminiscent of writer Upton Sinclair's ill-fated 1934 depression campaign for her governorship of California in his "EPIC" campaign to "End Poverty In California."

He was hoisted off the stage into the wings.

On the other hand, if Mrs. Luce is using the word "social" in its broadest meaning, here is a quote from the late Goldsworth Lowes Dickinson, British essayist, which might be pertinent:

"Every kind of discrimination is a protection of the incompetent against the competent, with the result that the motive to become competent is taken away."

You understand that I just quote these gentlemen; I don't explain what they say and don't even necessarily agree or comprehend what they are talking about.

HERE IS another one you might get something from:

"An expert is a person who avoids the small errors as he sweeps on to the grand fallacy."

That was by Benjamin Stolberg. And whatever happened to some of those old political slogans? Such as—"The full dinner pail," "Two chickens in every pot," "Two cars in every garage."

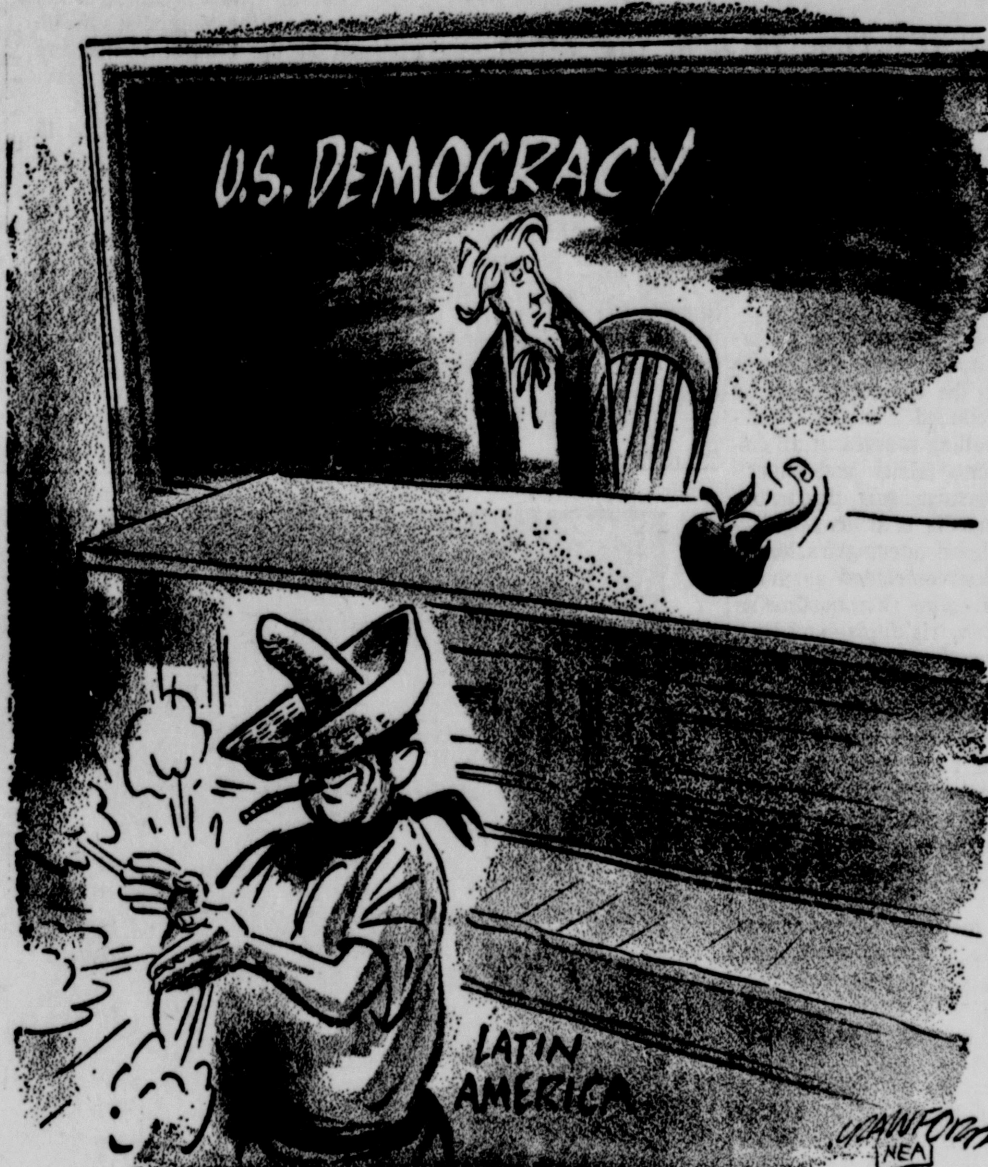

If that last one were ever carried out it would mean the biggest garage-building spree in the nation's history.

If you promise not to tell either Mr. or Mrs. Luce, I have a confession to make about Luce publications.

Every time I read them, I wonder if I am a victim of "Luce" thinking.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

An Apple for the Teacher

Longest Rail Strike

By VICTOR RIESEL

It may yet take longer to cross a 4½ mile brand new railroad strip connecting Cape Kennedy with the Merritt Island "moonport."

than it will take to shuttle through space between that base and the moon itself.

The untold story of this tiny rail spur which leads to the world's first massive moon Vertical Assembly Building is not a science-fiction tale.

It's the story of the longest railroad strike in recent history. Here is the dramatic record of the fight between the executives of one railroad—the Florida East Coast on one side, and the White House, the Pentagon, the railroad unions and the entire AFL-CIO on the other.

It began back in 1962, just about two years after the line had pulled out of a 30-year bankruptcy. First, the road was hit by the ban on trade with Cuba which had been its main source of revenue, and then by a bitter freeze which damaged the Florida fruit crops. At this point the off-train rail unions demanded a 10.3 cent-an-hour increase.

THE UNIONS claimed that all other roads had granted such a pay hike. The line countered with an offer unacceptable to the unions. They struck on Jan. 23, 1963. This hit the line which serves Florida military installations as well as the Cape Kennedy space center. Furthermore, a $3 million spur to the Merritt Island Vertical Building and its supporting industrial complex was being planned for completion in January 1964 (which it was).

The Vertical Building, I'm told, is to house the cluster of 5-engine, 7.5 million-pound-thrust, 3-stage rocket. Without the spur and a smoothly working Florida East Coast line, there could hardly be a manned moon shot.

For a short while the line was completely paralyzed. Then Edward Ball, chairman of the FEC board and his colleagues decided to operate. They dropped their passenger service. They hired more than 500 new men to run the freight trains. They soon had 700 employees in place of the striking 1300 signalmen, telegraphers, clerks and other off-train personnel and the original 700 on-train union workers, such as locomotive engineers, who respected the picket lines.

By January 1964 the line reported that its freight service was practically normal.

THE UNIONS put pressure on the government and late last year the government, in turn, put the heat on the FECRR.

The White House under the late President Kennedy, and then under President Johnson, went to action. All federal agencies were ordered to boycott the lines. The Army Corps of Engineers, the Air Force and NASA subsequently put an embargo on military and space shipments.

The Justice Department sued in federal court to force the road to fire the 500 replacements and rehire the strikers. The National Mediation Board and a special Presidential Emergency Board directed the road to comply. Edward Ball listened, agreed to negotiate and insisted that a stenographic record be kept of all talks in which he participated—but he refused to dismiss the newly hired strikers' replacements.

At all times the road operated legally, fighting every federal and union action in the courts. Ball and his operating chief, W. L. Thornton, vice president of the FEC, in effect had instituted the anti-featherbedding work rules for which the nation's other railroads still are fighting—and over which there may be other rail strikes later this month.

ON JAN. 28, 1964 — a year and five days after the strike hit the 572-mile line which runs from Jacksonville to Miami — the road reported it was again making a profit. Just about this time the spur to the "Moonport" was completed.

On Feb. 3 engineers from NASA and the army toured the strip and said it was ready for use. This meant that the vast tonnage needed by the vertical assembly, the industrial complexes and the first launching pad for manned-moon rockets should soon start coming over the FECRR spur.

But it's a "hot" line. Anything shipped over the struck road is "hot cargo" in union jargon. The material can be hauled by the FEC over the 4½ mile spur to the Merritt Island marshalling yards and the "vertical" — but what then?

Will the unionized construction workers pass the railroad unions' picket lines? Will they handle the "hot cargo" or will they break their no-strike pledge made for such defense projects? Will they succeed in forcing NASA to take the spur from the FEC with which NASA has a contract?

TO TOP ALL this, the national AFL-CIO itself is in the fight. At its national convention in New York last November it passed a resolution pledging "fullest possible support of the entire American labor movement to the strikers on the Florida East Coast Railway and urging all affiliates to do everything in their power to give them whatever assistance is possible. If all forces make good their threats and the construction unions refuse to work at the other end of the line it will be a long time before there is a moon in 3.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a high school senior who always thought marriage was for keeps, or, as the vows say, "till death do us part." After reading your column for a couple of years, I get the impression that "forever" means "until she gets fat or he gets bald, or someone more attractive comes along."

A girl in our senior class eloped two weeks ago. When I asked her if she was truly in love and was sure her marriage would last she said, "If it doesn't work we can always get a divorce."

I would be willing to bet right now that the girl has no intention of spending the rest of her life with the fellow she married.

Are people different today than they were 30 years ago? I would like to know the answer. — DOUBLE O.

Dear Double O: People are the same — and have been for centuries. Improved U.S. standard of living, however, has an impact on our standards of morality. The old, dependable guidelines have slipped away.

Women work alongside men today as they never did before. They make good salaries and hold responsible positions. If the marriage doesn't measure up to the story book version she can tell him to get lost.

That high school runaway bride probably will be looking for a lawyer within two years.

Guest In the House

Dear Ann: Two years ago my sister, Bertha, was in an accident. My wife and I invited her to stay with us until she recovered and could go back to work. We have no children and the spare bedroom was available.

Bertha took a full year to recuperate and then went back to work. We have been waiting for her to leave since January 1963. We do not mind that she has not paid us one cent in all the time she has been here. Nor do we care that she rarely pitches in and does any housework. All we want is our privacy back.

I can't come right out and ask her to leave because she is the type who thinks the whole world is against her. She has two married sons but says she never would live with them because she can't get along with their wives. Please tell me what to do. My wife has been wonderful, but she now has stomach trouble because of this. — FLORIDA HEADACHE.

Dear Headache: Bertha is going to be with you and your wife for the rest of your lives unless you tell her she must find another place or — better still — until you find another place for her, and help her pack.

Only a gutless wonder would let his wife get stomach trouble because he can't screw up courage to tell a barnacle of a sister that a year's free board and bed is more than enough.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Boomerang?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

It looks now as if enactment of a civil rights law prohibiting racial discrimination in hotels, motels and eating places may prove to be a boomerang.

It could hasten the day when the legislation itself will become a dead letter due to an inability on the part of the federal government with all its resources, to carry out an effective enforcement operation.

Under existing constitutional law, there is no sanction for the legislation. But the hope of its sponsors is that the Supreme court will reverse all earlier decisions and bow to the advocates of integration.

Attempts to enforce even constitutional laws sometimes have resulted in bitter feeling, rather than an amiable adjustment of differences. The nation's experience with the liquor prohibition laws is a case in point. In fact, after a dozen years of frustration over the problem of enforcement, another amendment to the Constitution turned this whole issue back to the states.

Already the effort to desegregate public schools is backfiring. The boycotts and disturbances in the North are more numerous than in the South, and are often characterized by violence.

A New York City newspaper reported the other day that the Negro boycott of the public schools there "was in disregard for the law," and that it did more "to alienate black and white, and alienate them when they are young so they can carry it with them forever, than anything that has happened in this city in 25 years."

SOME PROGRESS toward adjustment of racial disputes has been made in various parts of the country but this may be adversely affected when the "public accommodations" rules become known to the public and when the problem of enforcement is more widely discussed than it is today. One businessman writes of this prospect as follows:

"Many large hotels and restaurants are now integrated, but reserve the right not to serve guests for dozens of reasons, women in shorts or beachwear, men without jacket or tie, men or women that are loud, disorderly, or drunk, etc.

"Under federal law, how could such a dining room refuse to serve a drunken Negro and not be subject to litigation? Aside from the trouble and expense of going into court, how could the hotel prove the Negro's rejection was due to disorderly conduct or excessive drinking if the plaintiff claims discrimination?"

Motels often do not rent to travelers with local license tags on their cars, or without luggage, or if they are in any way suspicious. This will provide excuses for discrimination. Undoubtedly word will get around in various communities that certain hotels, motels and eating places actually do discriminate racially, and that only white persons will be welcome. Nobody will advertise such a fact, but it will be spread by word-of-mouth.

THE PROBLEM often is not one involving any anti-racial feeling on the part of the motel owner himself, but he discovers frequently that he can get more business by discrimination than by non-discrimination.

A public accommodations law has been urged as a way to overcome these defects, but the prohibition experience argues the other way—that the businesses which comply with the law may find themselves at a disadvantage while their competitors use subterfuges to deny their facilities to those they do not choose to serve.

In the prohibition era, moreover, it took a vast army of federal agents and large legal staffs to carry out an enforcement program involving customer relations but bootlegging flourished and speakeasies were established to sell liquor in defiance of the law and the Constitution. Some persons were jailed, but a far greater number defied the law.

The big debate on the public accommodations section will come in the Senate, but all indications now are that the legislation will be enacted into law before summer. This means that the enforcement problem will be before the country soon thereafter, and a large number of lawsuits may be expected.

MEANWHILE, the school-integration problem is reaching its most acute stage because neighborhood schools will no longer be protected from invasion by those who live outside the neighborhood.

Efforts now are being made to produce a "racial balance" by transporting students from all parts of a city or county in order to integrate a larger and larger number of Negroes with whites.

This is encouraging enrollments in private schools. In some northern areas there is bitterness among white citizens who cannot afford to send their children to private schools and who resent the enforcement of integration.

Theoretically, the Supreme Court never ordered "integration" as such, but merely declared that segregation in public education is not constitutional. There has been no high court decision on whether, under the Constitution, the states can retain their right to require children living in a certain neighborhood to attend schools in the districts geographically prescribed.

'Good Samaritan' Law

"Should I help a hurt and bleeding accident victim or should I turn my back and leave for fear of being sued?"

It has distressed me recently to hear these questions voiced by good citizens—even some purporting to be good Christians.

Of course you should help! The laws, the courts, juries have never been likely to penalize a volunteer helper. A suit against his benefactor by a thankless and unprincipled accident victim has never been looked upon kindly in any court. However, if such a suit might have been successful previously it cannot be successful now under the new "Good Samaritan" Law.

Last September a law became effective in Ohio to help the "good Samaritan." It reads as follows:

"No person shall be liable in civil damages for administering emergency care or treatment at the scene of an emergency outside of a hospital, doctor's office, or other place having proper medical equipment, for acts performed at the scene of such emergency, unless such acts constitute willful or wanton misconduct."

Thus, the law allows you to follow your heart and be merciful.

Whether the job to be done is taking a patient's mail to him at one of the local hospitals or aiding nurses when the Bloodmobile makes its annual visit, a polite conscientious Gray Lady is nearby to do it.

Mrs. Ralph Zimmerman, chairman of the group, and her staff of 51 Ladies provide public service duty at the Central Clinic and City Hospital and the Bloodmobile, as well as performing other deeds when the need arises.

The Gray Ladies division of the Red Cross was formed here in 1961 and at that time had about 25 members.

Marriage Can Fatten You

By GAYNOR MADDO
Food Nutrition Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When a young man and young woman marry, they feel they have reached a goal in life. Living seems more stable and this sense of security prompts them to take things easier. They relax.

And they eat more and become less active.

This part of their life together is a threat to their attractiveness and to their future health, warns Dr. Philip L. White, director of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association.

The young husband, tired of tending to his wife's home-cooked meals. She, more devoted than wise, overfeeds him as a matter of principle. Soon that slender young fellow she married begins to put on weight.

"IN THE SNUGGNESS of their new home, they are inclined to substitute television watching for their former long walks together and the regular exercise both enjoyed while in school. Yet they continue to eat as much, maybe more, than they did before marriage when their energy expenditure was much greater."

If you were in good physical condition at 25, what you weighed then is your desirable weight for the rest of your life. Dr. White advises:

"If you weigh more now than you did between 20 and 25, start trimming. Get the habit of regular exercise."

Dr. Martha F. Trulson of the Harvard School of Public Health and many other medical and nutrition researchers are looking to fashion to help in the battle against obesity.

They hope that the American preoccupation with feminine thighs that look good in stretch pants and male bellies that put no strain on trim cut trousers will cause a breakdown in the traditional custom of social overfeeding.

SURVEYS do reveal that in a few cities many so-called "smart young hostesses" are beginning to key their parties to the low calorie theme. They let the guests know that their hosts will not be offended if they do not overeat.

All young marrieds are not adults. An increasing number today are teen-agers between 15 and 19. Because of low food to the lower calorie theme. They budget or poor eating habits, their diets often lack many nutrients essential to full growth of immature bodies. Most boys of 18 have not achieved their fullest development. Teen-aged girls, because of their notoriously bad eating habits, are the poorest nourished group in our society.

"TEEN-BRIDES who are undernourished should be warned that the nutritional state of the mother at time of conception may have far more influence on the outcome of her pregnancy than her diet during the nine months of gestation," advises Dr. Robert W. Hillman, professor of environmental medicine and community health at New York State University College of Medicine (Brooklyn).

"Fifteen and 16-year-old mothers-to-be, particularly those with poor nutritional histories, must realize that their bodies have not yet fully matured. They are still abuilding."

Therefore they need among other essentials more ascorbic acid from citrus fruits and more milk than they have been used to because they now have increased requirements for calcium.

ANEMIA is often present in adolescent pregnancy even among overweight girls. These young wives need extra amounts of foods rich in iron, particularly liver and other organ meats.

In many instances the need for iron supplements is indicated also.

You, Too?

Don't think you're the only housewife—

Who is always clipping recipes, but never gets around to filing them.

Whose husband always wants to know what you did with anything he has misplaced.

Whose children always volunteer your services when there are cookies to be baked, chauffeur to be done, or somebody's house is needed for a teen-age party.

Whose indispensable labor-saving devices always seem to choose the worst possible moment for groaning and giving up.

Who always falls for the flattering words, "No one is as well qualified as you are to be the chairman of this important committee."

Who can't quite seem to share the children's happiness at the close of another school year.

Who is always thinking, "Next year things won't be so hectic—and I will have a little more time for myself."

Who finds it easier to say "we'll see," or "maybe," instead of "no" to a teen-ager who can present his case with the skill of a lawyer.

Who finds it hard to answer a husband's "Well, what have you been doing all day?" because, though you work hard trying to keep even with the housework, you rarely have any big accomplishment to mention.

Don't think you're the only housewife who fits this picture. Truly, it's typical.

'Likes Marry Likes' AMA Study Indicates

Likes marry likes, a study of the wives of 38 well-adjusted "normal" American men indicates.

Individuals who are essentially mentally healthy select mentally healthy spouses, Jules S. Golden, M.D., Reuben J. Silver, Ph.D., and Nathan Mandel, Ph.D., Albany, N.Y., concluded from the study reported in the current (December) Archives of General Psychiatry, published by the American Medical Association.

The well-adjusted men were drawn from nearly 2,000 boys who obtained a "perfectly normal" score on a psychological test, the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory, when they were in the ninth grade, the researchers said. At age 26 and 27, 50 of these men were found to be unusually well-adjusted socially and psychologically, they said. The 38 available wives of the 40 men who had married were then studied as to their sociological and psychological adaptation, they said.

THE MEAN PROFILE of the wives scores on the Personality Inventory affords an objective and highly reliable independent evaluation of their psychiatric status, the researchers said. This shows the wives to be "astonishingly normal," they said.

"It is of particular interest... that the general configuration of the profile of the women is almost identical with that of their husbands," they said.

Husbands and wives rate high in contentment with their lot in life, effectiveness, and overall adjustment, they said. On items reflecting "richness of personality" both men and women had a low rating, they said.

"Both men and women are seen as essentially content with their lot in life," they said. "The women have even less striving for upward social mobility than do the men. Their aspirations appear to be in keeping with what they can realistically anticipate in their lifetimes."

THE GENERAL IMPRESSION of the wives was that the "greatest majority are in the normal range, reasonably intelligent, middle-class and making an adequate middle-class adjustment; with some concern with appearances and 'keeping up' but essentially 'home and children' oriented," they said.

The findings are consistent with the theory that marital success and happiness are dependent upon the man and wife having a similar social background the researchers said.

In considering the marital relationship of these couples, they said, it was found that the husbands appeared somewhat dominant in 19 marriages and were markedly domineering in 4, while in 9 marriages neither partner dominated and in only 6, did the wives give evidence of dominance.

"INVESTIGATION of more representative samples would have to prove whether or not our couples are unique, or if they epitomize what may now be a relatively common level of adaptation in the population at large," the researchers said.

At the same time, the author said, they had "mixed feelings" on the subject.

"Such a population would promote stability or a firm backbone of the country; but as observed of the previously described men, these couples' lives seem essentially mundane and dull," they said.

"Our data indicates, however, that this sample of husbands and wives, with a high order of consistency, experience what we consider some of life's deepest and most meaningful pleasures: in their stable relationships with each other, and in raising their children. The inference could be made that constricted interests permit such subjects a wider opportunity for the meaningful rewards of family life.

"A more stimulating educational experience and more enlightened media of mass communication, it is our hope, will enrich such 'normal' people's lives without sacrificing their essentially sound adjustment."

For her wedding the bride wore a floor length gown of white Chantilly lace and satin, fashioned with wide scooped neckline and long sleeves. Let Your Valentine Eat Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you're planning to bake a cake for someone you love who loves chocolate, then you might enjoy trying this spanking-new recipe.

This chocolate cake roll may be made ahead and frozen. When you're ready to serve it, and it's definitely party fare, just take it out of the freezer and offer it pronto. No thawing necessary; it will slice perfectly. If you haven't a freezer, refrigerate the cake after adding the cream filling and frosting.

How did this new recipe happen? We happened to complain to a home-economist friend that so many chocolate rolls crack during the rolling process. She wagered she could get around this hurdle. She did, and here's her roll, with nary a break.

CHOCOLATE

VALENTINE ROLL

1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces (1 cup), 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup eggs (5 large eggs), ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cold water, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup sifted cake flour, Confectioners' sugar, Cream Filling and Frosting.

Grease a 15 by 10 by 1-inch jelly roll pan; line bottom with waxed paper. Melt chocolate over hot, not boiling, water; remove from heat and stir in soda. Beat eggs with salt until they begin to thicken; gradually beat in sugar; continue beating if necessary until thick and lemon-colored. Beat in cold water and vanilla. Turn melted chocolate into mixing bowl over egg mixture. Sift flour over mixture in 4 parts, folding in after each addition; then continue folding until chocolate is thoroughly blended. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in moderate (375 degrees) oven 15 minutes, or until cake springs back when pressed lightly. Turn out immediately onto clean dish towel heavily sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Starting at short end, roll up cake along with towel. Place on wire rack to cool.

CREAM FILLING AND FROSTING

2 cups heavy cream, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla ¼ cup quick chocolate flavored mix.

Whip 1 cup of the cream until almost stiff; gradually beat in sugar and vanilla. Carefully unroll cake and spread with sweetened whipped cream; roll up again. Whip remaining 1 cup cream until stiff; beat in ½ cup of the chocolate flavored mix. Frost roll, reserving ¼ cup of mixture. Stir remaining ¼ cup chocolate flavored mix into reserved mixture; put in pastry tube. Make double-heart design on frosted roll. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Roll may be frozen, and may be served unthawed. Makes 8 servings.

Fashion Tips

Big, Bold
Big, bold chiffon scarves in prints or solid colors serve beautifully as stoles for resort evening wear. They come in prints and plaids as well as floral patterns.

Handy Ones
When you buy a pair of handy plastic rainboots, look for the ones that have steel reinforcement in the heel. They will wear longer, especially if your shoes have thin heels.

Make-Up for Spring
When you select new pastel clothing for spring, be sure to change the shade of your make-up as well. The proper make-up will help enhance your appearance in your light spring wardrobe.

Vivid Prospect
Shocking pink, black and white and black and yellow show up as top colors for spring of '64. Big, bold prints will be favorites, too.

Skirting the Issue
Skirt lengths should be determined by common sense, not fashion. If your legs aren't the best in the world, wear skirts that come an inch or so below your knees.

Neck-lect
The neck is probably one of the most neglected areas of the body. Like the face, it needs thorough cleansing and stimulating massage.

Paris Fashions

Will They Copy New York Lines

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS — (NEA) — If the Paris lady of fashion wants a plunging neckline for spring, she may find only two sources — the House of Dior or New York. The only word whispered in advance about necklines in the Paris collections was that they were to be "uncluttered" — except at Dior where Marc Bohan continues to exploit the D.D. (daring décolleté) for evening.

The major designer showings began Monday.

FOR THEIR NEW silhouette, Paris designers have turned to the '30s and the willowy Garbo. Fashions will be fluid, high-bosomed, with natural shoulders. The waistline will be indicated, but not stressed.

It is expected that suit jackets may be longer, but skirts will remain status quo. Enhanced femininity will be the keynote of all the collections, heralded by the use of soft colors and diaphanous fabrics for daytime as well as evening.

ON STAGE WITH the Paris greats of old will be a new star, Gerard Pipart, 27. He will show his first collection at Nina Ricci. Pipart, a graduate to the front row from the chorus of ready-to-wear stylists, declares he has never been influenced by his elders and wants only to create the unencumbered clothes today's chic women expect from Paris.

At Dior, Bohan has concentrated on the nonchalant theme. His skirts will be wider and many will be pleated. The success of his intensely feminine winter black chiffon evening dresses has encouraged him to continue his plunging neckline.

Castillo, launching out on his own this season, plans to discard all superfluous trimmings such as buttons, belts and embroidery. He will not have a flounce on any of his 180 models.

Pierre Cardin will revive lace of every kind for daytime as well as evening. His colors will be beige, pink and mauve. His mannequins, inspired by the 1930s, will revive the shaven eyebrows and pale make-up of that period, along with flat-heeled shoes and colored hose.

YVES ST. LAURENT, now rated among the top eight designers, will continue to present slightly eccentric, prestige styles. He will show lavish use of ostrich feathers on dresses and hats, a distinct departure from his past preoccupation with the sportive.

Guy Laroche, who feels that the "overdress" theme has been overdone, will show chic, elegant, young daytime clothes and a new version of the coat-dress.

Jules Crahay, who replaced Castillo at Lanvin, has abandoned the mannish tailored clothes which helped his leap to fame in favor of dress-maker styles. He will also show a group of models created for the debutante—a custom of the late Jeanne Lanvin 40 years ago.

Simonetta & Fabiani, the celebrated Italian team, are now definitely anchored in Paris. Their new silhouette will be stielike, blossoming out in width from the waist up.

THE LEADING COLORS will be pastel pinks, blues and yellows, with occasional acid greens and turquoise. It is also expected that white will continue to be a favorite and that navy will make a triumphant comeback.

Completing the flashback to the '30s will be the enormous cloche hats. They will top shoukier-length, flat, side-swept hairdos.

Mother of 3 Paints Murals

Eileen Shanker Has Always Had Artistic Touch

By CAROL CROFT

A busy Salem mother of three has managed to find time to express herself creatively during the past two years and the results have added greatly to the beauty of her home—in fact, her dining room looks like a scene from an art gallery.

Two years ago, Eileen Shanker of 1118 S. Lincoln Ave., started out to paint her dining room walls shortly after she and her family moved into the home. When her husband, Richard, returned from work that night, he found one wall of the room decorated with a lovely mural in shades of beige and brown.

It was while she was mixing the paint, that the thought occurred to her to try something different and she did. In actuality, the one wall took a total of 15 hours spread over three or four days to complete. But this was just the beginning.

THE SHANKERS DECIDED to move their piano away from the wall to another part of the room so that the entire scene could be viewed. Then, one day, Mrs. Shanker decided to paint a mural of the same scene on all the walls of the room but she chose this time to use many shades of different colors in this venture. The mural ended up with a total of 19 colors.

After nearly completing the other three walls, they decided that the piano was hiding too much of the multi-colored design. Back it went to stand in front of the wall with the beige tones. Now they plan to move it to the basement so all four walls can be visible.

One day Richard Capel, real estate and insurance broker, saw the painting and asked Mrs. Shanker to paint one on his office wall, which she did. She has also done a mural on the wall of a private Salem residence.

A LARGE PROJECT which she recently tackled was the painting of a mural in the bride's room of the First United Presbyterian Church which she and Mrs. A. P. Schmauch did in connection with the Women's Association of the church.

Another feather in her talented cap resulted from a display which she showed in a recent home show. A major paint company took pictures of the mural on exhibit and is now using them in its advertising.

ALTHOUGH SHE has worked mostly with murals and watercolors, Mrs. Shanker has also done some portrait sketches. She was reared on a farm and attributes her love of painting horses to this background.

Her formal training consisted of four years of art classes at Salem High School but she has done artistic work of one kind or another since she was old enough to hold a pencil.

Mrs. Shanker has another full-time job that keeps her busy—that of being wife and mother of three daughters—Karen, 11, Susie, 8 and Connie, 4. She admits that sometimes when she is in the process of doing a painting or mural, she is reluctant to stop for such routine but necessary chores as preparing meals or washing and ironing.

"When I start something, everything else waits. I lose myself in it. If I just had to worry about myself, I could go on and on and not stop to eat," she explains.

Her proud husband has no complaints about the way she manages to keep the household and her own projects running. He is so enthusiastic about her work that he is in the process of finishing a drawing table for her to use.

A foreman for the Sterling Boat Trailer Division, he is an artist in his own right. He has designed and made lamps and candelabra of wrought iron and has furnished the attractive home with several other items of useful decor.

MRS. SHANKER explains the work with murals as a relatively uncomplicated process. She first sketches the proposed scene on the wall with pencil to give her an idea of where the different objects will be placed. She then paints the scene color by color—doing first all the light shades of one color and then another and then moving to the darker shades. Sometimes she goes back over her work if a change is necessary.

Her ideas for murals come from various sources. She happens to see a picture she likes and uses it as part of the mural. It is possible for several different pictures to be incorporated into one scene.

Murals can be bought in wallpaper form and placed on the walls with paste. However, Mrs. Shanker feels that doing it by hand, besides being original, has other advantages. For one thing, she can match perfectly the colors in the painting to combine with the color scheme of any drapes, carpeting or furniture. Also, she can make the mural any size necessary to cover the complete wall from corner to corner.

Eventually, Mrs. Shanker aspires to do magazine illustration work. However, her next few years will undoubtedly be devoted to her family.

Women Work to Fill a Need

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

WASHINGTON (AP) — If America's working women were to believe their critics and stay home where they're so often told they belong, it would mean absenteeism for one-third of the country's labor force.

From a feminine point of view, the resultant chaos would be delicious to behold—if women were a vindictive sex.

Just picture it: Executives accustomed to a battery of secretaries trying to hunt-and-peck their own letters. Department stores frantically deploying male personnel to strategic sales centers. Men teachers taking over classes of the defecting school-marks and smiling gamely—the first day.

Fortunately for the nation, the frequently discriminated against often underpaid, woman employee needs to work as much as she is needed to work.

One in Three Wives Work
The recent report of the President's Commission on the Status of Women says: "Among the great majority of women, as among the great majority of men, the motive for paid employment is to earn money. For some, work has additional—or even primary—value as self-fulfillment."

Millions of women work to support their families entirely or to supplement their husbands' income so their families can do more than merely exist. One in three married women is working; among nonwhites, it's one in two.

The commission's report points out that although women are represented in the highly paid professions, most women's jobs in government, industry and business are in the low-paid fields.

of men's. Another is that women are often paid less than men for the same work.

Simply because they're women, opportunities for training and advancement are frequently denied women. The commission discovered that although women constitute one-third of the work force, expenditures for on-the-job training are divided into one-tenth for women workers and nine-tenths for men.

Tackling the problem of discrimination from all angles—and even before its report was issued—the commission requested and got:

1. A directive from the U.S. Employment Service instructing its public employment offices across the country to refer applicants on the basis of qualifications, regardless of sex, and to request employers using the offices to avoid job orders specifying sex except where genuinely warranted.

2. A Presidential directive instructing federal agencies to make all selections for appointments, advancements and training in the federal service without regard to sex, except in unusual circumstances found justified by the Civil Service Commission.

This came about because the commission found that in federal civilian employment women were heavily concentrated in the lower grade office positions. Fewer than two per cent of higher level positions were filled by women.

3. Removal by the Defense Department of specific statutory limitations on the number of women in uniform who can become top brass.

What is left to be done? For one thing, the commission would like an executive order that:

B. Applies it to work done under federal contracts (about 20 per cent of women workers).

That done, the commission wanted action taken to encourage employers who don't have government contracts to follow the lead and give equal treatment to women.

Then there are all those women (and men) working in hotels, motels, restaurants, laundries and many retail outlets in agriculture and in non-profit organizations who aren't covered by federal or state wage and hour laws.

Consequently, coverage by the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act should be broadened to take under its wing the millions of low-paid workers who most need its protection, says the commission.

On the state level, the commission wants minimum wage levels like those under federal law, time and a half for overtime, a 40-hour week (except for executive and professional women who may have to put in more hours to get ahead), equal pay for comparable work and the right of all workers to join unions of their own choosing and to bargain collectively.

But even if the commission can't change the old adage, "Woman's work is never done," at least they'd like her to get a fair and equal wage for it.

We, the Women

The Wisdom of Age

I know an elderly couple for whom life is just as wonderful and beautiful as when they started it together on their wedding day. They have stayed happy, alert and in love through the years.

It's the best reminder possible that whether a couple winds up their later years bravely facing what is ahead together, the way they started out depends on how much love, mutual respect and joyful companionship they put into their marriage while it is young.

The wife now is bedridden. But she's no object of pity. Her husband's loving concern for her—all the little thoughtful things he does to make her comfortable, the way he smiles at her and teases her like a young man in love, the way she laughs at his little jokes, takes pride in the things he is doing that she can no longer do with him—shows that she is a woman loved. It doesn't matter if her hair is snow white and she has to be lifted from her bed to a wheel chair to enjoy the flowers her husband tends so well, because she has always loved flowers.

"She has walked hundreds of miles with me on hunting trips," her husband said, giving her a proud smile. And then, when he showed me his den, there was on his desk a recent photograph of his wife next to a picture of her taken on her wedding day.

From the way he held each picture for a moment and studied it, it was evident that he found his wife as beautiful as a white-haired woman as she had been as a black-haired, smiling bride.

I'm glad I know this couple. Whenever I have any fears or doubts (and who among us does not?) their life stretches before me like a beacon of faith and courage. They are a fine lesson in what marriage can be.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: I had a terrible time filling plastic freezer bags with fruit especially strawberries) until those wonderful wide-mouth quart jars were invented.

Now, I just put the correct amount of fruit (or whatever I am freezing) in the wide-mouth fruit jar fit the plastic bag over and around the top of the jar and flip the jar upside down! The fruit goes into the bag neatly . . . with no spills.

Be sure to hold the bag firmly on the jar before turning it over. So easy. No mess at all.

MARTHA RIDGEWAY.

DEAR HELOISE: Here is a trick I do with my children's play mitts.

I cut the top and the foot off my husband's old socks and sew the "tube" to the wrist of the mitten. This makes the mittens longer and keeps the cold air and snow from the little ones' wrists.

I also make long mitts, up to the elbow, out of old wool socks. These are very nice for children to wear while playing during cold weather.

MRS. I. FOWLER.

Why doesn't some manufacturer just make a mitten up to our elbows? Great idea.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: When we recently moved into a lovely home, the wallpaper had to be scraped from the walls before we could repaper. Taking the paper off was no problem at all.

BUT . . . then came the colossal job of scrubbing the glue off the ceilings and walls of three rooms.

I was hard at work with a scrub brush, and getting very little accomplished, when your article about the nylon net mop flashed through my mind! I was so desperate that I went so far as to rip the net undershirt from my daughter's dress. WOW! I felt as if I had inherited two extra days in time saved.

The glue was loosened quickly and painlessly. I put a liquid cleaner in my water and wet the area first with a cloth. The reason for this is that the net does not absorb water.

Then I took the netting and went over the area that had been dampened. The glue and remaining pieces of paper came off quick as a flash and the netting rinsed out easily.

I had tried metal sponges, but they took so long to rinse out that it was not worth it. Soap-filled pads were the same.

With the net I did not even have to use hot water.

PHYLLIS.

You are wonderful to tell us this. The next time you "un-paper, try putting an old piece of terry cloth (such as a piece of old bath towel) inside the nylon netting. Then you won't have to wet the walls before scrubbing.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I work in a huge apartment hotel. I work for five different families. I do the hand laundry each day.

Here's a way I have found to dry sweaters and baby woolens after laundering Use the bath tub!

Lay a big dry bath towel in the bottom of the tub—then put your knit garments on top of the towel. They will dry beautifully without any damage to carpets, and without the unsightly business of having them hang over the shower rod.

JULIE BROWN.
DEAR HELOISE: The little plastic boxes tomatoes come in will hold small boxes of kitchen spices. I keep mine in a drawer and this keeps them from scooting all around when I open and close it.

Also, by keeping the spices in a drawer they do not accumulate dust.

MRS. WESLEY DEAN.

DEAR HELOISE: When I dry my nylon stockings outdoors, I pin the toes to the clothesline, leaving the tops hanging down. I attach two or three clothespins to the top of each stocking. The weight holds the stockings down and keeps them from getting tangled around the clothesline.

MRS. ORLO SASMAN.

AUDIENCE ANALYZED
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Fans from 46 states of the union and 9 foreign countries attended performances during the first season of the Minnesota Theater Company at the Tyrone Guthrie Theater.

An analysis of last summer's audience of 193,000 showed that 70 per cent came from within 100 miles, but the balance included visitors from such far away places as Poland, Australia and Japan.

Oliver Rea, managing director said the research was designed to provide "more accurate guidelines for future activity."

Cyprus

Cypriot leader refused to divulge its contents.

Although he has expressed willingness to accept a foreign police force on the island, Makarios wants the troops under U.N. control. The United States and Britain have rejected this condition because they regard it as an opening for Soviet interference on Cyprus.

In the past, the Russians have opposed U.N. peacekeeping operations in the Middle East and the Congo.

In London, the British Foreign Office described Khrushchev's note as a "gross misrepresentation of the situation."

"It is impossible to believe it is intended to be a constructive contribution towards solving the Cyprus problem," the Foreign Office statement said.

A deadlock continued at the London peace conference on Cyprus. The Turkish Cypriot delegation flew home after describing the situation as very grim.

The Greek Cypriot representatives also were scheduled to return to Nicosia.

A new outbreak of shooting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots occurred Friday in the mountains overlooking the port of Kyrenia, on the north coast of Cyprus 25 miles from Nicosia.

County AAA Unit Gets State Award

The Columbiana County Motor Club took top honors Friday night among Ohio AAA auto clubs having between 10,000 and 25,000 members for excellence of its program for enrollment of gift memberships during December.

The award was accepted by H. Jud English, assistant manager of the Columbiana County AAA affiliate, during the annual awards dinner of the Ohio AAA club workshop-conference which concluded Friday night at Plaza Hotel, Columbus.

The Columbiana County club, in competition with seven other AAA clubs in its membership category, was recognized for having enrolled 190 gift memberships during December.

The local auto club had 10,933 members at the end of 1963. A. P. Morris of Salem is club manager.

conference reconvenes on Feb. 17.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., another conferee, said that under this schedule the Senate-House group should be able to come up with compromise bill by Feb. 18 or 19. A final vote could come one day later.

If this schedule is met, the benefits of the bill should start flowing about March 1. The Senate version provides that the reduction in wage and salary withholding to reflect the cuts in income tax rates shall begin one week after the bill is signed.

The Senate completed its consideration of the bill in seven days, four of them involving night sessions. On the final vote, 56 Democrats and 21 Republicans supported the bill. Opposed were 11 Democrats, including eight Southerners, and 10 Republicans.

The House and Senate versions are identical in their rate reductions for the nation's 80 million individual and 550,000 corporate taxpayers. Thus there is no question of their eventual adoption.

The Senate bill, however, would immediately cut the 18 per cent withholding rate to 14 per cent instead of to 15 per cent as voted by the House.

House managers have indicated that they will go along with the lower rate, which was asked by Johnson, but perhaps insist that companies be given longer than one week to put it into effect in issuing pay checks.

Many firms have said it is impossible to do it in a week.

When the 14 per cent rate takes effect, it will pour an additional $800 million a month into the economy. The administration is counting on this to stimulate economic growth, create more jobs and bring in additional tax revenue.

THESE FIVE PUPPETS, representative of those made by Mrs. Anne Bennett's class at Fourth St. School, have been good "teachers" for the sixth graders. The marionettes were made to portray the characters in "Little Red Riding Hood." Samples of their handiwork are displayed (from left) by Greg Oesch, woodman; Diane Ehrhart, "Tommy Tucker;" Norman Price, the wolf; Charles Gibbs, "Red Riding Hood;" and Diane Porteous, grandmother.

Mrs. Anne Bennett's Protoges

4th St. Pupils Make Own Puppets For Show

Sixth graders at Fourth Street School know very well that Little Red Riding Hood isn't a tiny Russian gangster mounted on a horse.

This tale has been almost the heart and soul of Mrs. Anne Bennett's charges the past six weeks. During that time the 30 children have been busily hand-fashioning puppets to represent the characters in this children's favorite — the main star, the grandmother, the wolf, the woodcutter, the mother, etc.

The heads are made of sawdust, glue and plaster of paris. The bodies were carved from wood, with moving parts controlled by a system of strings.

BUT TO THE CHILDREN the moving dolls have become more than just marionettes. They were a way of learning cooperation since a boy or girl cannot complete a puppet alone, especially at the "stringing" stage.

They also learned to work with their hands with an assortment of cutting and shaping tools and to see a project through to the end, no matter how perplexing.

To some students unaccustomed to the need for self-reliance, puppet-making was a true ordeal. "Mrs. Bennett, this doesn't look right, what shall I do?" Or, "Mrs. Bennett, I can't make this fit!"

The teacher would show them how to get out of a seeming dilemma and the sun would come out again.

LEARNING SYMPATHY for others is another value of the puppet project. Most of the puppets were clothed by mothers of the children. The mother of one little boy was unable to help her son for reasons of ill health. What then was he to do? A bare puppet was a nobody.

Mrs. Bennett put the problem to the class, and they got on their thinking caps. By the next day, another mother had begun sewing the outfit for the pantsless puppet and everyone was happy again.

What course does puppet-making and shows come under? "Call it what you will—social studies, art, literature, dramatics—making the puppets and making them perform is so many things to the children," the teacher says.

NOT UNAWARE THAT the play's the thing, the children are jockeying for roles in the February presentation of "Little Red Riding Hood." The class itself will select the best puppets and best manipulators. Other children will speak the pieces of the characters in the play.

Best of all, the play has a happy ending, which all children of all ages love. Even if you do have to pull strings.

January Sales Up Four Per Cent

Automobile Boom In High Gear

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The automobile boom keeps rolling along in high gear.

The industry contradicted predictions that sales would flatten out in January.

The performance heightened expectations that 1964 will be a good business year as a whole. Automakers sold 565,508 passenger cars in January, up 4 per cent over the 543,600 delivered in January 1963.

This gave them a fast start toward what many expect to be the third 7-million-plus car year in a row.

General Motors Corp., the No. 1 producer, had its best January in history with sales of 310,240 cars, compared with 302,440 a year earlier.

Ford Motor Co. also hit a January peak, its dealers selling 150,204 cars against 138,152 in January 1963.

Chrysler, with a 13.4 per cent increase over a year ago, enjoyed its best January since 1957.

American Motors reported the best January sales in three years. Dealers sold 32,163 new cars, compared with 31,970 a year earlier.

Production in January set a new high for the month of 744,648 cars. This exceeded the old January peak of 688,770 set in 1960.

The stepped-up pace of production continued during the week with an estimated output of 167,800 cars. This was up 4 per cent from the 161,407 assembled the previous week and 9 per cent from the 153,981 a year ago.

The steel industry moved ahead hand in hand with the automobile industry, its biggest customer. Steel production during the week posted its fifth consecutive weekly rise. Mills poured 2,217,000 tons of ingots, an increase of one-fifth of 1 per cent over the previous week.

Steel demand continued to surge ahead of expectations by President Johnson came to the aid of the consumers when he asked Congress for new laws to protect them against phony packaging and disguised interest charges. He endorsed nine specific pieces of legislation.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson said:

"For far too long the consumer has had too little voice and too little weight in government." With a surge in December, consumers increased their installment debt in 1963 to $53,745,000,000. The expansion in 1963 exceeded the previous record set in 1959.

Consumer installment debt in December rose $460 million, up from the $383 million increase in November. In all of 1963 the total climbed $5,711,000,000, against a $4,506,000,000 increase in 1962.

New orders received by factories rose slightly in December from November. This key indicator of future business advanced 1 per cent to $35,272,000, from $34,953,000,000.

Salem Loses To Scott 59-57 In Final 3 Seconds

Lisbon Staves Off Late Rally To Nip Columbiana 77-75

Dixon Sinks Winning Shot

Quakers Almost Pull Contest Out of Fire

By MARK W. MILLER
News Sports Editor

If hustle, desire and determination were measured in points, then Salem High School would have trounced Toledo Scott last night.

As it was, a desperation shot by Albert Dixon, 6-6 senior, swished the nets with just three seconds to go to give the Bulldogs a hard earned 59-57 victory in the Salem Senior High gym.

Only Scott's height and manpower kept it in the contest. Heavily favored, the visitors couldn't quite figure Salem's clever style of basketball.

A cold stretch in the third quarter gave Scott a much needed assist. The Quakers started the frame with an easy bucket by Rick Gregg.

FOR THE NEXT four minutes, the Red and Black were shut out, while the Bulldogs tallied 12 points.

Down nine points (54-45) midway through the fourth frame, Salem came surging back.

Seniors George Begalla, 5-10, hit on two baskets, then Wayne "Bink" Washington swished the net twice with a pair of push shots to cut the deficit to 54-53.

Oscar Ellis canned two foul shots for the Bulldogs. Washington stepped to the charity circle and dropped in a pair of gift throws for the Quakers.

For the winners, Ellis made a free throw to give them a 57-55 margin.

UNDER GREAT pressure, sophomore Jim Lantz tied the score for the Red and Black as he calmly made two foul shots with 22 seconds to go.

Scott was charged with traveling and the Quakers had the basketball with 20 seconds showing on the clock. A quick-reverse pattern got Washington an open shot in the corner.

His field-goal attempt bounced off the rim and Tyrone Woolley of Scott came down with the rebound. With time running out, Dixon made his desperation shot.

Salem took advantage of every break and played smart basketball throughout the contest. The Quakers perfecting a press, annoyed the visitors with the defensive tactic throughout the game.

MOST OF THE scoring in the first period was done by George Begalla and Wayne "Bink" Washington for Salem.

William Thomas, 6-5 senior, tied the clash 4-4 for the Bulldogs, then Washington made a four free throws in a row.

An exchange of several baskets cut Salem's lead to 12-10. Begalla tossed in two fouls with 19 seconds left, and the Quakers held a 14-10 lead at the end of the session.

Early in the second period, Salem enjoyed a 22-15 lead, but the Toledoans managed to rally to cut the deficit to 31-26 by intermission.

Gregg gave Salem a 33-26 bulge the first minute of the third stanza, then the Quakers hit an unfortunate cold spell. Baskets by Dixon, Oscar Ellis twice, Thomas, and a bucket and foul by Robert Osby gave the winners a 38-33 margin. At the end of the frame, Scott led 42-38.

FROM THE FIELD, the Quakers attempted 55 shots and made 20 for 36.6 per cent. The Red and Black dropped in 17 of 23 from the foul line.

The visitors canned 24 of 68 from the field for 35 per cent. Scott connected on 11 of 21 from the free throw lane for 52.4 per cent.

The press was a major factor in 20 turnovers by Scott. Salem made only eight mistakes, but had four attempted shots blocked.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKED six times during the game for the Quakers as the lane opened up when Scott's defense broke down, but the Red and Black missed the easy layup chances.

Washington took scoring honors for Salem with 20 points. Begalla chipped in with 15 and Gregg netted 12.

Wooley, who made nine points in the last quarter, led the Bulldogs with 15. Osby collected 13,

Lema Shoots 136 In Phoenix Golf

By DICK STUART
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema, campaigning to become the first double winner of the winter golf trail, carried a one-stroke lead into today's third round of the $50,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

One stroke behind Lema's six-under-par 136 were a half dozen players — U.S. Open champion Julius Boros, British Open king Bob Charles, Jack Nicklaus, George Bayer, Gary Player and unheralded Bobby Brue.

The traffic jam at the top found no fewer than 18 within three strokes of the leader and jockeying today for the lead.

This gathering did not include Arnold Palmer, who is seeking an unprecedented fourth straight Phoenix Open crown. He is six strokes back at even par 142 for the 36 holes along with six others.

Lema, annoyed by amateur cameramen, shot his second straight three-under-par 68 over the Phoenix Club Course for his 136. His card for Friday's round included an eagle, five birdies and four bogies.

Grouped at 138 were Don January, who fired a tourney best 64 Friday, Dave Marr, Bob Rosburg, first round leader Don Fairfield, who posted a one-over-par 72 Friday, Don Whitt and Herman Scharlau.

Gene Littler, Bob Nichols, Bernard Hunt, Rex Baxter, Frank Beard and Gay Brewer were next at 139.

The cut was 146, and today's field included 86 pros and 10 amateurs, the latter led by George Boutell of Phoenix. The Arizona State University sophomore, who has won the amateur prize in this tourney three consecutive years, had 144 after 36.

The leaders:

Tony Lema	68-68-136
George Bayer	69-68-137
Gary Player	72-65-137
Jack Nicklaus	71-66-137
Julius Boros	69-68-137
Bob Charles	70-67-137
Bobby Brue	70-67-137
Six tied at 138.

FORMER CHAMP IN RACE — Iggy Katona of Willis, Mich., three time winner of the late model championship of the MARC circuit in 1955, 1956 and 1957, hopes to get back into the victory ranks Sunday afternoon when he competes against an all-star field in the 250-mile ARCA (Automobile Racing Club of America) late model stock car race over the high banked two and a half mile Daytona International Speedway at Daytona Beach, Fla. with a new 1964 Ford. Katona, a former Michigan motorcycle champion, had considerable experience over the Daytona track while taking part as a driver for the 100,000 mile Comet endurance run recently.

Russell, Kurtz Lead Doubles Event

Women's Pin Tourney To End This Weekend

The final round in the Salem Women's Bowling Association Tournament will be held this weekend at Kenny's Lanes in Washingtonville.

Following action last week the team of Zelma Russell and Margie Kurtz rolled into the number one spot in the doubles event with a 1,168 series.

Top actual series of 576 was bowled by Ethel Bricker, who also posted the high handicap set 630.

Jo Crawford and Erla Burrier, third in the handicap series bracket with 1,134, have the high three-game actual set 961.

Cards' Manager Enthusiastic About Coming Season In NL

HOUSTON (P) — We were disappointed last season after making a run at Los Angeles but at the same time we were not dissatisfied with our overall showing in 1963.

I sometimes am guilty of over-enthusiasm but never of exaggeration and I am looking forward to the coming season with enthusiasm. I'm convinced the Cards will be a big factor in the National League pennant race. Hardly anyone expected us to do as well as we did last year. I'm proud of the team which won 19 of 20 in one stretch in September.

We gave the Dodgers a good run for it. Walter Alston's team won, ultimately, but it took a great team to beat us as the World Series proved.

We are going into 1964 more solid than we went into the '63 race although I would like to have another right-handed hitting outfielder.

One big reason is the development of Tim McCarver into one of the best catchers in the big leagues. Last spring catching was one of our big problems and Tim was still a question mark. Now he's established. We acquired Jim Coker, a right-handed hitting catcher to back up McCarver. We had no right-handed hitting catcher at all last season.

All our infield positions are fixed. Bill White at first, Julian Javier at second, Dick Groat at short and Ken Boyer at third made up the starting infield for the National League in last year's All-Star game. I don't see how you can do better than that. The infield, of course, was the strong part of our club.

Dal Maxvill is a very capable utility infielder and will be helped by Jerry Buchek, who had a fine year playing shortstop at Atlanta.

Minerva Hands 62-50 Setback to Leetonia

Coach Len Batcha's Leetonia Bears suffered their 11th loss in 15 outings Friday night as they invaded Minerva and bowed to the Lions 62-50.

The victory was Minerva's seventh against four losses in Tri-County League action.

Bill Simms and Jerry Starkey led the Lions' attack as they connected for 15 and 12 points, respectively.

Phil Campbell and George Zeppernick each scored in double figures for the losers. Campbell ended the night with 10 points while Zeppernick swished the nets with 13.

Leetonia was ahead at the end of the first period 11-10, but faltered in the second quarter to trail 29-23 at the half. Minerva widened the margin in the third and led 45-28 going into the final stanza.

Leetonia entertains Sebring tonight while the Lions will be on the road at Columbiana.

Golden Eagles Downed 62-53

United's Win Streak Halted by Carrollton

United High's Golden Eagles' attempt to cop their ninth victory in a row failed Friday night as they traveled to Carrollton and suffered a 62-53 defeat.

Coach Jack Mills United aggregation moved ahead early in the game and led 13-12 as the game moved into the second period. At half time the host Warriors had moved ahead 27-26 and in the third period spurred in front 49-31 as the Eagles managed only five points.

In the disastrous third canto, United failed to get a goal until late in the period. United committed costly errors in the last half, giving the ball to their opponents in key situations.

Coach Mills' quintet now holds an 11-4 season mark. The Eagles won their first three games of the season, but lost the following three before starting their eight-game win streak.

Bill McGranahan, Ken Votaw and Homer Sturgeon all hit in double figures for the losers. McGranahan garnered 21 points. Votaw connected for 13 tallies while Sturgeon added 10 points. Bob Nobel was high for Carrollton with 26 pointers.

United hit on 19 of 30 floor shots for 33 per cent compared to the victors' 39 per cent at 24 of 62 attempts. United made 19 of 30 free throws for 63 per cent to lead in that department. Carrollton made 14 of 25 for 56 per cent.

The Eagles return to the hardwoods tonight, entertaining Warren St. Mary's.

U. S. Olympic Hopes Give Boost

2 Army Men Equal Records In Philadelphia Track Meet

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A couple of U.S. Army swifts who equalled Olympic champion marks and a one-time Marine have given a new boost to blossoming American Olympic hopes.

Army enlisted men Roy Hicks and Mel Pender, escaping at least briefly from the shadows of Hayes Jones and Bob Hayes, flashed to meet record-equaling victories in the Philadelphia Inquirer Games Friday and La Salle's John Uelses soared again into the 16-foot stratus.

Uelses, who became the first man ever to pole vault 16 feet when he was competing for the Quantico Marines, set a meet record of 16-1 in something of a personal comeback before a sellout Convention Hall crowd of 10,650.

It was the first vaulting attempt since he suffered a minor muscle tear while competing in Toronto two weeks ago. At the time, there was no indication how long he might be out.

Uelses floated over 16-1 on his first try and, along with Vilanova's Rolando Cruz, ordered the bar lifted to an American indoor record, 16-5.

Cruz, who cleared 16-1 on his second try and took second when it was all over, missed three times at the record height. Uelses, however, skipped his first two vaults at that height, then brushed off the bar on his one attempt.

Both surpassed Cruz' old meet record of 16-0¼, one of four meet marks wiped out.

The others included Pat Traynor of the Delaware A.A. in an 8:52.6 two-mile run, Charley Mays of New York in a 49.7 440-yard dash and a 7:38.2 two-mile relay by Seton Hall.

Two of the marks with the greatest Olympic potential, however, could have been the meet record-equaling times of 5.2 by Pender in the 50-yard dash and the 6 flat 50-yard high hurdles by Hicks.

Remains Tied For Loop Lead

Bucher's 23 Points Leads Devils' Attack

Coach Gary Pike's Lisbon Blue Devils staved off a second-half rally by the visiting Columbiana Clippers Friday night to notch their 13th victory in 15 outings, 77-75.

The win keeps the county seat crew deadlocked for the Tri-County League lead with Poland. Both squads have 9-2 loop marks and meet tonight at Poland. In their first meeting, Poland won 55-43.

The Blue Devils moved in front early in the first stanza and held a 28-19 margin at the end of the period. Lisbon held a 39-33 lead as the teams left the floor at the half.

Columbiana came back strong in the third canto and trailed the host club 57-55 going into the final period.

The Clippers moved ahead by one point early in the fourth period, but couldn't contain Lisbon's attack.

Tim Bucher was the big gun for the winners as he tossed in 10 goals and three free throws for 23 counters. Larry McPherson and Larry Webber aided Lisbon's winning cause, canning 12 and 14 points, respectively.

Rick Perrin, Jim Ward and Ron Burbick provided the scoring punch for Coach Rich Berryman's Clipper, hitting on 18, 17 and 16 points, respectively.

The Blue Devils hit for 50 per cent of their shots from the floor while the losers managed 47 per cent in the first two periods of play but came back in the final half to fire a blazing 91 per cent.

Columbiana now holds an 11-4 season mark and stands 7-4 in league competition.

In preliminary action last night, the Clipper Jayvees downed their hosts 57-49. Columbiana will play host to the Minerva Lions tonight.

A word from THERON at the Country Store
 Business has been very good here at the Country Store. It is usually rather slow during the months of January and February.
 Our records show we are doing 70% more business than we were doing last year at this time. After being in business for almost a dozen years an increase like this is almost unheard of.
 Every department here at the Country Store has come a long way the past year. The restaurant section has shown the largest increase.

WASHINGTON TO NEW YORK . . .

. . . WITHOUT A STOP LIGHT

Starting point in the 39-mile Baltimore-Washington Parkway which parallels the old, heavily traveled Route 1.

Baltimore Harbor Tunnel permits a bypass around downtown Baltimore, a bottleneck.

The new Maryland Northeastern Expressway brings you right into the equally new Delaware Turnpike.

To cross the Delaware you use the imposing Delaware Memorial Bridge, a vast improvement over the old method of ferries and resultant traffic jams.

From the border of New Jersey, it's the 120-mile New Jersey Turnpike. Then, it's over the George Washington Bridge or through the Hudson River tunnel to New York.

Deming Engineer Hails From China

Ken Shou Fang Is Agriculture Expert, Too

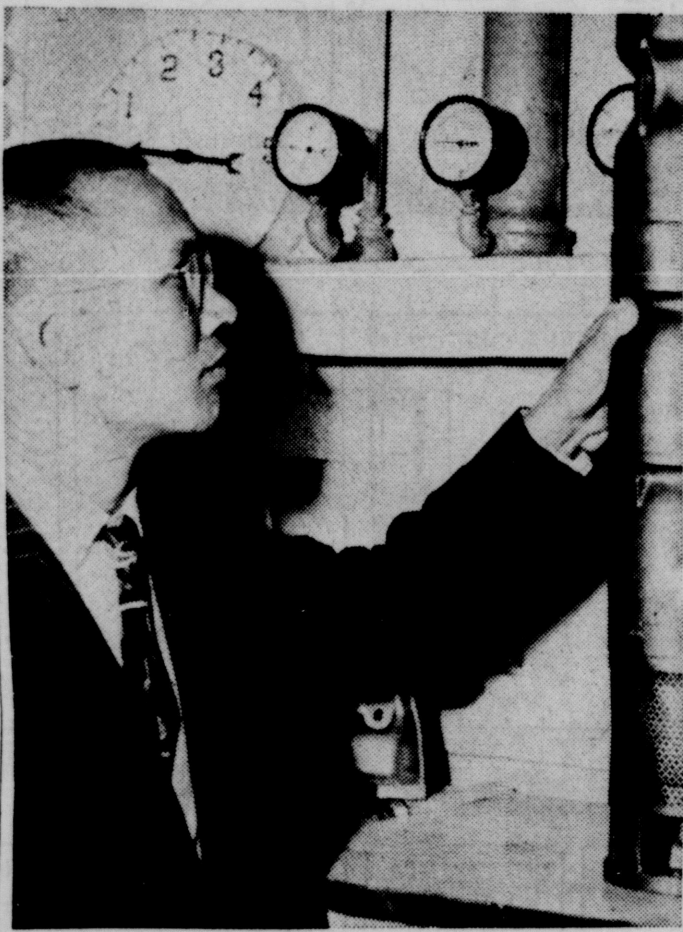

By GLENN SCHOTTEN

The young man who could be called the "Father of Agricultural Engineering" in China is the new chief engineer for turbine pumps at the Deming Division of the Crane Co. here.

Ken Shou Fang, personable family man whose original home is Chenking province south of Shanghai, headed the government department in 1945 which first established a Department of Agricultural Engineering in his native country.

Two years later in 1947 Fang was granted a Chinese government scholarship to study in America. Already armed with a bachelor's degree from China, where he specialized in mechanical engineering and agronomy, he attended the University of Nebraska and received his master's degree in 1949 in agricultural engineering. He did advanced studies on cotton mechanization at Texas A. & M. and on irrigation and well-drilling at Utah State University.

BEFORE COMING TO Salem,

KEN SHOU FANG AT DEMING LABORATORY

Fang was a project engineer at the Pomona Works of the Fairbanks Morse & Co. at Pomona, Calif., until the plant shut down and moved to Kansas City, Kan. Fang, who proclaims himself an ardent anti-Communist, was happy to be away from his native land when the Reds took over in 1949.

He is extremely vociferous about the proposed French-backed plan of seating Red China in the United Nations. "If Communist China is allowed into this group, it will mean the beginning of the end of the UN," he declares.

Fang, a believer in the Malthusian theory, also favors rigid birth control, especially in the densely populated areas such as the Orient but also in the United States where, he believes, population may some day run ahead of food production.

He spoke out for this measure last June when he was invited to participate on a panel deliberating the use of machinery in world food production at a World Food Conference of the United Nations in Washington, D.C.

FANG ALSO EXPLAINS a fact little known in the United States; that is, Formosan China, the last outpost of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist adherents, is aiding some pro-Western countries. Fang has agricultural engineer friends who are giving technological aid to such countries as Liberia and Togo in Africa, South Viet Nam and Bolivia.

These are all countries, which, if a showdown should occur on the UN admission of Red China would be expected to vote staunchly against the proposal.

THE DEMING ENGINEER, who has charge of development and research for turbine pumps, is president of the Chinese Society of Agricultural Engineers in the Americas. He is also a member of the drainage committee of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers.

Fang, who became an American citizen in 1962, hopes to bring his wife and family to Salem as soon as he locates a house. His wife is a laboratory technologist and holds a master's degree from the University of California. She is also a trained entomologist.

The couple has three children. Meika is an eight-year-old daughter whose name means America-California. The name of Meika's younger sister, Meiling, means America-Lincoln, Nebraska. A four-year-old boy, Yubit, completes the family.

Cafeteria Menu

Sweetheart Dance Set Tonight at Columbiana

COLUMBIANA — Joe Hoffman's orchestra will play for dancing at the annual "Sweetheart Dance" from 8:30 to 11:30 tonight at South Side School by members of the Columbiana Square Dance Club. Vince Andrusis will call for the dances. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the evening.

Jerusalem Lutheran Church Women met in Luther Hall Thursday for a general meeting with Mrs. William Dalrymple leading the quickening service and worship offering. A film entitled, "Lutheran Service Society Work" was shown following the business meeting. Hostesses for the meeting were members of the Faith and Grace Circles.

LENTEN SERVICES will be held at Jerusalem Lutheran Church each Wednesday at 7 p.m. beginning next week, except Holy Week, when services will be held Maundy Thursday and Good Friday evenings.

Identical services will be held Wednesdays at Zion Lutheran Church in New Waterford at 8:30 p.m. with Rev. Thomas E. Rehl, pastor of both churches, delivering the sermons.

A nursery will be provided at Jerusalem Church for children four years old and younger. Theme for the services will be "The Hands of Lent." Ash Wednesday will have the topic, "Humble Hands."

MEMBERS OF THE North-

Chaplain Dale Kohr of the Lutheran Service Society in this area showed a film, "Lutheran Service Society Work." Following a brief business meeting, lunch was served by the Grace and Faith Circles.

Mr. and Mrs. William Couchenour are the parents of a daughter born Wednesday in the Salem City Hospital.
